Chapter I. A Letter to Shareholder

Dear shareholders:

In 2025, amid the intense price competition driven by severe market saturation in China and the decline in new vehicle sales in Indonesia due to political uncertainties, the Company demonstrated strong operational resilience. Annual revenue reached NT$4.467 billion, representing a slight decrease of 3% compared with the prior year. Nevertheless, order intake for new projects continued to grow, providing solid momentum for future growth. Looking ahead to 2026, the external operating environment remains highly uncertain. In addition to the normalization of price competition in China, uncertainties surrounding U.S. tariff policies and significant increases in raw material prices, among other adverse factors, continue to pose challenges. In response, the Company has adopted strategies aimed at enhancing its core competitiveness by strengthening cost control, shortening time-to-market for new products, and actively expanding into new markets to mitigate the impact of these unfavorable conditions. To ensure the Company's leading position in the global automotive electronics industry, we will further strengthen our strategic deployment through the following three key initiatives:

1. Strengthening the Company's Foundation: Advancing Digital Transformation and Risk Management from the Inside Out
  - (1) AI-driven efficiency transformation: In the prior year, the Company focused on introducing AI tools to optimize and accelerate management processes, research and development, production scheduling, shorten hardware and software development cycles, enhance testing accuracy, and improve document processing efficiency. In the current year, we are actively deploying agent-based AI solutions, enabling AI to evolve from a passive support tool into an active manager of operational workflows. This transition is expected to substantially reduce management costs while improving overall management quality.
  - (2) Flexible supply chain management: The Company continues to strengthen its bargaining power with key suppliers and has established a multi-sourcing procurement framework to mitigate risks arising from rising raw material prices, thereby ensuring margin stability.
  - (3) Risk management mechanisms: We closely monitor global exchange rate fluctuations and tariff developments to enhance financial and operational flexibility in response to changing external conditions.
2. Deepening Product Portfolio Expansion: Building Solutions for Traditional Four-Wheel Vehicles, Non-Four-Wheel and Special Vehicles, and Drones
  - (1) Consolidating leadership in AR HUD: Leveraging our leading market position in China, we will further enhance AR HUD technologies and accelerate the global deployment of our proprietary 3D AR HUD solutions. We aim to secure OEM projects related to AI virtual personal assistants (AI VPA) and PHUD, providing automakers with comprehensive intelligent cockpit solutions.
  - (2) Cross-domain intelligent applications: Beyond the traditional four-wheel passenger vehicle segment, the Company is extending its technologies into two-wheel motorcycles, special-purpose vehicles, and drone applications to develop new niche markets.

3. Global Business Strategy: Capturing Opportunities from Non-China Supply Chains and Emerging Markets

- (1) “Alternative supplier” advantage in Europe and the United States: The Company is actively leveraging supply chain restructuring opportunities arising from U.S. tariff developments by positioning itself as a leading non-China supply chain alternative. We aim to accelerate qualification and certification processes with Tier 1 international automotive manufacturers.
- (2) Deepening presence in the Indian market: India has become the world’s third-largest automotive market. The Company plans to further expand its presence in India by establishing close partnerships with local automakers and replicating its successful experiences in Southeast Asia and China.

The year 2026 will be one of both challenges and opportunities. While uncertainty in the global economic environment continues to increase, this period also presents an opportunity for companies with strong technological moats and global deployment capabilities to distinguish themselves. The Company is well prepared to address these challenges and will continue to create long-term value for customers through technological leadership and business model innovation, striving to deliver sustainable growth and solid results.

1-1-2 Greenhouse Gas Assurance Information

Describe the assurance status of the most recent two years as of the annual report publication date, including the scope of assurance, assurance provider, assurance standards, and assurance opinion.
Explanation of Assurance for 2024: In 2024, the Company's assurance scope covered its standalone operations in Taiwan, including Chuansing I Factory, Chuansing II Factory, and Changhua Factory. The assurance was conducted by Lloyd's Register Quality Assurance Limited Taiwan Branch (LRQA) in accordance with ISAE 3410 "Assurance Engagements on Greenhouse Gas Statements" and ISO 14064-3:2019 issued by the International Organization for Standardization (ISO). Based on LRQA's methodology, the assurance opinion concludes that the total greenhouse gas emissions disclosed in the greenhouse gas inventory report for 2024, including all direct and energy indirect greenhouse gas emissions (Scope 1 and Scope 2), are materially accurate. No matters have been identified that would indicate material misstatements in the calculation of other indirect greenhouse gas emissions (Scope 3 and Scope 4). In addition, the preparation of the greenhouse gas inventory report complies with the requirements of ISO 14064-1:2018 (Specification with guidance at the organizational level for quantification and reporting of greenhouse gas emissions and removals). ## 1-2 Greenhouse Gas (GHG) Reduction Targets, Strategies, and Action Plans

Describe the GHG reduction base year and corresponding data, reduction targets, strategies, specific action plans, and the progress made toward achieving the reduction targets.
In response to the impacts of global climate change, the Company is committed to reducing greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions in its GHG management practices. In accordance with ISO 14064-1:2018 GHG inventory standards, the Company adopts the operational control approach for GHG inventory and management. The GHG emission boundary is defined based on the parent company entity. The total GHG emissions for 2024 are disclosed accordingly, with 2024 set as the base year for carbon reduction. The Company uses GHG emissions per unit of revenue as the key quantitative indicator for evaluation. The Company has set a short-term target of a 3% reduction in total carbon emissions for 2025, a mid-term target of a 10% reduction by 2030, and aims to achieve net-zero emissions by 2050. In 2024, the Company completed the GHG inventory for the parent company entity, with total emissions amounting to 3,427.056 metric tons of CO <sub>2</sub> e. The primary source was Scope 2 energy indirect greenhouse gas emissions. The emission intensity was 1.565 TCO <sub>2</sub> e per NT$1 million in revenue. In 2025, the Company completed the GHG inventory for the parent company entity, with total emissions of 3,098.509 metric tons of CO <sub>2</sub> e. The primary source of emissions was Scope 2 indirect greenhouse gas emissions from energy consumption. The emission intensity was 1.587 metric tons of CO <sub>2</sub> e per NT$ million in revenue.

Note 1: The disclosure shall follow the timeline stipulated by the order prescribed in Paragraph 2, Article 10 of these Regulations.

Note 2: The base year shall be the year in which the GHG inventory is completed based on the consolidated financial reporting boundary. For example, according to the order prescribed in Paragraph 2, Article 10 of these Regulations, companies with paid-in capital of NT$10 billion or more shall complete the GHG inventory for 2024 by 2025, and therefore the base year shall be 2024. If the company completes the consolidated GHG inventory earlier, that earlier year may be designated as the base year. #### (II) An overview of the industry:

1. Current Status and Development of the Industry

(1) Automotive Electronics:

Looking back at 2025, the global automotive industry continued to undergo deep transformation driven by electrification, intelligence, and connectivity. Functional requirements for automotive electronic products have become increasingly complex, with a clear and consistent shift toward energy efficiency, intelligent safety, and enhanced convenience and comfort. Traditional vehicle technologies centered primarily on mechanical systems have proven insufficient to meet modern consumers' expectations for safety, environmental sustainability, comfort, and high-performance vehicles. As a result, demand in the global automotive market has increasingly moved toward diversification, customization, intelligence, digitalization, electronic control, and user-centric design.

Over the past year, applications integrating automotive mechanical structures and electronic control systems, enabled by a wide range of sensors, high-speed image processing, next-generation in-vehicle head units, precise satellite positioning, and 5G wireless communication technologies, have become the market mainstream. Furthermore, seamless connectivity between vehicles and portable devices, combined with cloud-based service platforms, has become a standard model for delivering services such as low-emission mobility solutions, active and passive safety, emergency assistance, and real-time navigation guidance. In 2025, the proportion of automotive electronics in total vehicle costs continued to rise, driving profound structural changes across the traditional automotive component supply chain. The long-term growth potential of the automotive electronics market remains substantial. The automotive electronics supply chain not only provides critical opportunities for innovation across the automotive industry, but has also solidified its position as a high-growth sector attracting leading global technology companies.

As governments worldwide continued to implement electric vehicle promotion policies and introduce more comprehensive regulatory frameworks in 2025, the global automotive industry steadily entered a new era. This momentum has directly fueled rapid growth in key electric vehicle systems and core electronic components. According to leading market research institutions, global electric vehicle sales surpassed 20 million units in 2025, maintaining a robust year-on-year growth rate of approximately 20%. This trend has firmly established the scale of the global automotive electronics market, which is expected to sustain strong growth momentum going forward.

(2) Eye Protection Products:

As early as 1998, the World Health Organization (WHO) began promoting “World Sight Day.” This global public health initiative, led by the WHO in collaboration with international organizations such as the International Agency for the Prevention of Blindness, Lions Clubs International, and Orbis, has gained increasing prominence, particularly in 2025. The United Nations resolution “Vision for Everyone,” adopted in 2021, continues to serve as a guiding principle for national policies, calling on countries to provide eye health services to approximately 1.1 billion people worldwide affected by preventable vision impairment by 2030.

According to estimates by Australian researchers, the global population with myopia is projected to reach nearly 5 billion by 2050, including nearly 1 billion individuals with high myopia who are at risk of blindness. This warning has continued to draw significant attention from the global public health community. In 2025, myopia is no longer solely a national public health issue, but has emerged as a serious global challenge, with the urgency of vision care reaching a new level.

Beyond a limited number of congenital and genetic factors, environmental factors remain the primary cause. The issue of prolonged near-distance visual tasks has not been alleviated; instead, it has intensified with the deepening of digital lifestyles. Student populations face not only traditional academic pressures, but also increasing dependence on smartphones, tablets, and other digital devices. Prolonged and extremely close viewing habits have become a key factor driving the continued rise in myopia prevalence among children and adolescents worldwide in 2025.

3. Development Trends and Competition for the Company's Products

(1) Automotive Electronics:

In 2025, the core value of vehicles continued to shift rapidly from traditional mechanical hardware toward software, semiconductors, and artificial intelligence. This fundamental transformation has created structural, rather than cyclical, growth opportunities for the automotive electronics industry.

Market Development Trends:

Centralization of Computing Architecture: Vehicle electrical and electronic architectures (EEA) are transitioning from distributed electronic control units (ECUs) toward integrated domain controllers and high-performance computing (HPC) platforms. This evolution has led to exponential growth in demand for high-performance AI chips, system-on-chip (SoC) solutions, and related electronic components.

Vertical Integration and Restructuring of the Supply Chain: To secure control over core technologies, global automotive original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) have increasingly bypassed traditional Tier 1 suppliers and established direct, in-depth collaborations with semiconductor leaders such as NVIDIA and Qualcomm. At the same time, major consumer electronics manufacturing service providers, including Foxconn and Pegatron, are leveraging their supply chain management and manufacturing strengths to enter complete vehicle or key module production. As a result, the competitive landscape of the automotive supply chain has become increasingly complex.

Challenges and Opportunities for Taiwanese Companies: Under traditional business models, Taiwanese companies faced significant barriers to entry into closed automotive supply chains due to the lack of vehicle-level design leadership. However, with the rise of Software-Defined Vehicles (SDVs), many of these legacy barriers are gradually being dismantled. Global division of labor has become more flexible, and the growing demand from automakers for high-performance computing, automotive displays, sensors, and power management chips directly aligns with the core strengths of Taiwan's information and communications technology industry. Consequently, the competitive challenge has shifted from "how to enter existing supply chains" to "how to deliver subsystem solutions with integrated hardware and software capabilities," creating unprecedented opportunities for Taiwanese suppliers.

Market Competition:

Competition is no longer limited to individual components, but has evolved into a contest among entire ecosystems. Whether traditional automotive component leaders such as Bosch and Continental or emerging technology giants, all are actively building their own software platforms and strategic partner alliances. For Taiwanese companies, the key to success lies in becoming providers of critical technologies in specific areas, such as smart cockpit and ADAS subsystems, and in integrating themselves into mainstream industry ecosystems.

(2) Eye Protection Products:

In 2025, the global myopia problem continued to worsen, particularly among digital-native generations (Generation Z and Generation Alpha), posing a serious public health challenge.

Market Development Trends:

From "Correction" to "Prevention and Control": Market demand is rapidly shifting from traditional vision correction solutions, such as eyeglasses and contact lenses, toward more proactive myopia management and prevention. Although medical approaches such as orthokeratology (Ortho-K) lenses and low-concentration atropine are available for myopia control, there remains a strong demand for non-invasive, daily eye-care solutions that are compatible with modern digital lifestyles.

Technology-Enabled Vision Care: The rise of digital therapeutics and health technology has opened new avenues for vision care. Leveraging optical, electronic, and software technologies to address the fundamental issue of prolonged near-distance visual tasks has become a primary direction for product innovation.

Market Competition and the Company's Competitive Advantage:

Existing solutions in the market are largely focused on “treatment” or “slowing the progression” of myopia, while effective daily solutions addressing the root cause, sustained tension of ocular muscles, remain limited.

E-LEAD's core competitive strength lies in applying automotive-grade precision optical technologies to the consumer health sector, creating a distinctive market positioning. Building on its extensive expertise in head-up display (HUD) technologies, the Company has developed eye-care products that virtually extend viewing distance from 30 centimeters to 8 meters and magnify images by up to 17.7 times.

This technological innovation directly targets the underlying causes of visual fatigue:

Significant relaxation of the ciliary muscles: alleviating muscle spasms and fatigue caused by prolonged near-focus tasks.

Effective relaxation of the medial rectus muscles: reducing convergence stress during near-distance viewing.

In a highly competitive eye-care market, the Company's products are not intended to replace traditional medical devices. Instead, they represent a new, technology-driven, prevention-oriented vision care solution that complements existing medical treatments. By addressing the root causes of digital eye strain, the Company offers a novel daily eye-care option for individuals affected by intensive digital device usage.

1. Short-Term Development Plan:

The Company's main products are Head-Up Display, Front and Rear Reversing Camera, 2D/3D Around View Monitors, Blind Spot Detection Systems, Digital Electronic Rearview Mirror, Advanced Driver Assistance Systems, GPS In-Car

Entertainment Equipment, Rear Seat Entertainment Systems, electronics and mechanical components for non-four-wheel and special vehicles, electronics and mechanical components for unmanned aerial vehicles, and the Far Horizon Eye Care Product line. Therefore, in the short term, the Company will continue to develop high-end automotive electronics products, and please refer to II, (II) Research and development projects and product development plan in Chapter I, A Letter to Shareholders for the direction of our short-term plan.

2. Long-Term Development Plan:

The widespread application of automotive electronics has become a key driver in upgrading the automotive industry. Major automakers are increasingly investing in the design and development of safer and more environmentally friendly high-tech vehicles to offer drivers a more comfortable and convenient driving experience. To stay ahead of industry trends and expand business opportunities with vehicle manufacturers, the Company is initiating strategic alliances and collaborating with complementary partners in product development and market expansion, with the aim of delivering more competitive, advanced, and niche automotive electronics products.

In addition, the vision crisis should not be taken lightly. The effectiveness of modern medicine in the prevention and treatment of myopia has not been significant, and there seems to be no solution to the problem of myopia, mainly because of the inability to solve the problem of [prolonged near-distance visual tasks]. E-LEAD utilizes the technology of a head-up display, extends viewing distance, significantly relieving the pressure on the eyes caused by the ciliary and medial rectus muscles when looking at close distances, and preventing extreme fatigue and myopia. E-LEAD has gradually developed various long-distance imaging products for students to use while reading, writing, and using tablets and computers, and will continue to be marketed to all sectors of the community in order to reduce the chances of [prolonged near-distance visual tasks].

Medium- to long-term research and development plans are listed as follows:

Item	Applications
Combiner Type HUD	WHUD, 2D/3D ARHUD, PHUD, 2D/3D Digital Rearview Mirror HUD and DMS

2. Market Overview

(1) Automotive Electronics:

In 2025, following the stabilization of global supply chains, the global automotive market demonstrated a steady recovery. Global vehicle sales reached approximately 95 million units in 2025. The top three global automotive groups by sales volume were Toyota Motor Group (approximately 11.2 million units), Volkswagen Group (approximately 9.4 million units), and Hyundai Motor Group (approximately 7.5 million units). In the Taiwan market, new vehicle sales totaled approximately 414,000 units, representing a year-on-year decline of approximately 9.5% compared with 2024, mainly due to the impact of tariff policies.

The transformation of the automotive industry has become irreversible, with the concept of Software-Defined Vehicles (SDVs) profoundly reshaping the industry value chain. According to research reports published by the Industrial Economics & Knowledge Center (IEK), amid the global trend toward intelligent vehicles, Taiwan's automotive electronics industry continues to maintain distinctive competitive advantages over European, American, and Japanese counterparts, supported by its strong capabilities in semiconductors, components, and modules. The proportion of automotive electronics in total vehicle costs continues to rise. According to projections published by the international academic journal *IEEE Spectrum*, this proportion is expected to reach as high as 50% by 2030. As electric vehicle penetration increases and advanced autonomous driving technologies are progressively deployed, automotive electronics will play an increasingly indispensable role in the global automotive industry.

(2) Eye Protection Products:

According to long-term warnings issued by the World Health Organization (WHO), nearly half of the global population is projected to be affected by myopia by 2030. This projection has become increasingly urgent in 2025. As digitalized lifestyles have become the norm, vision-related issues have emerged as widespread health threats, with a notable trend toward younger age groups. As a result, market demand for effective and innovative eye-care products has become stronger than ever.

3. Market Share

(1) Automotive Electronics:

The Company's current revenue is primarily derived from electronic modules in two major segments: smart cockpit systems (including head-up displays and in-vehicle infotainment systems) and intelligent driving systems (including Advanced Driver Assistance Systems (ADAS)). Through years of dedicated development, supported by stable product quality and strong system integration capabilities, the Company has become one of the leading suppliers in Taiwan in terms of shipment scale in the fields of automotive head-up displays, ADAS subsystems, and in-vehicle head units.

The Company's products have been adopted by major domestic and international automotive manufacturers, establishing a significant presence in the markets for automotive head-up displays and in-vehicle information and communication systems. The Company's core competitive advantages lie in its deep expertise in system integration, coordinated hardware-software optimization, and key technologies related to automotive communication protocols, including CAN, LIN, and automotive Ethernet. These strengths result in system products with superior quality and high barriers to imitation, enabling the Company to maintain long-term and stable partnerships with automotive manufacturers and Tier 1 suppliers.

(2) Eye Protection Products:

The Company's proprietary eye-care products have gained initial recognition from professionals in the optometry and ophthalmology fields and have attracted strong market interest. Through a dual-channel strategy targeting both professional distribution channels and the high-end consumer market, the Company continues to promote its products with the objective of rapidly expanding market share in this emerging blue-ocean market.

4. Demand and Supply for the Future Market and its Growth Potential

(1) Remote Imaging Head-Up Displays

As the volume of information presented within smart cockpits continues to grow exponentially, the safe presentation of information has become a critical issue. Head-up displays, particularly augmented reality head-up displays (ARHUDs) that integrate navigation, warnings, and other information with real-world driving environments, have emerged as a core solution. AR HUDs effectively reduce driver distraction caused by looking down at instrument clusters or center displays, thereby significantly enhancing driving safety. Going forward, AR HUDs are expected to gradually move from premium vehicle segments into broader market adoption and become standard equipment in intelligent vehicles. Accordingly, market demand and growth potential for AR HUDs are expected to be substantial.

(2) Advanced Driver Assistance System Technology

ADAS technologies serve as the foundation for the realization of fully autonomous driving. Governments around the world have progressively enacted regulations mandating the installation of basic safety functions such as blind spot detection (BSD) and automatic emergency braking (AEB). In parallel, market demand for Level 2 and Level 2+ driver assistance features, including active lane keeping and full-speed adaptive cruise control, has become increasingly widespread. These developments require more advanced sensor fusion technologies, incorporating cameras, radar, and other sensing devices, as well as more powerful computing platforms. As a result, the entire ADAS supply chain has experienced robust growth, with clear and sustained momentum going forward.

(3) In-Vehicle Infotainment and Navigation Systems / Rear-Seat Entertainment Systems

Vehicles have evolved from simple modes of transportation into a “third living space.” In-vehicle systems are no longer limited to audio-visual and navigation functions, but have developed into integrated smart cockpit platforms that combine personalization settings, multimedia entertainment, driver monitoring systems (DMS), and connected services. This trend has driven demand for larger-sized, higher-resolution automotive displays, more powerful computing chips, and more intuitive human-machine interfaces (HMI), creating significant business opportunities across the related supply chain.

(4) Far Vision Eye Care Product Line

In an environment where digital devices are pervasive, vision health is increasingly under constant threat. According to professional ophthalmologists, earlier onset of myopia is associated with faster progression and a higher risk of developing high myopia later in life. High myopia has become the second leading cause of blindness worldwide, making the promotion of vision health an urgent issue. Under the widespread use of digital devices, early-onset myopia has emerged as a global public health crisis. Traditional corrective methods address symptoms rather than underlying causes, and the market urgently requires technology-driven preventive solutions that can alleviate eye strain at its source. The Company’s Far Vision eye-care product series is an innovative solution designed to address this unmet market need. Its market potential is expected to grow in parallel with increasing public awareness of vision health and preventive eye-care.

All patents, trademarks, copyrights, trade secrets, business information, and other intangible intellectual assets created or acquired by the Company, the Company's employees, or external parties participating in the Company's research projects are explicitly stipulated to be owned by the Company, thereby ensuring the lawful acquisition of intellectual property rights.

All intellectual property-related documents of the Company are centrally and uniformly managed by the Intellectual Property Group under the General Management Division. Such documents are stored in the archives of the General Management Division to ensure the integrity and security of the Company's intellectual property rights.

(1) Patents

In accordance with the "Operational Procedures for Intellectual Property Management," the Company has established clear and standardized processes governing patent proposals, patent applications, subsequent procedures, and the maintenance of patent rights.

Patent management is handled by the Intellectual Property Group under the General Management Division. The scope of responsibilities includes patent searches, review of patent proposals, patent application and portfolio planning, management of the patent management system, and evaluation of patent maintenance.

When research and development results reach a mature stage, each department conducts patent searches and proposal reviews to assess patentability and determine appropriate jurisdictions for filing. Based on these assessments, patent application strategies are formulated. Patent engineers prepare the specifications and drawings, with support from external patent law firms, to submit patent applications to the relevant intellectual property authorities in Taiwan and overseas.

The Company maintains a comprehensive patent register, which is updated on a regular basis to ensure that its research and development results are adequately protected.

For products that infringe upon the Company's patent rights, the Company safeguards its intellectual property by collecting supporting evidence and issuing patent infringement warning letters and initiating legal proceedings where necessary.

Based on product development needs, the Company conducts prior-art searches and comparisons, regularly monitors patent trends in relevant technology fields, and analyzes industry developments. These efforts are complemented by employee training in patent-related skills to strengthen the innovation capabilities of the research and development teams.

While actively protecting its own intellectual property and respecting the intellectual property rights of others, the Company addresses third-party patents that may affect its business development or present potential infringement risks. After collecting relevant evidence, the Company may file patent invalidation actions with patent authorities in various jurisdictions. If invalidation is not feasible, design-around recommendations are provided to assist research and development units in modifying designs and reducing patent infringement risks. As technologies evolve and products undergo generational transitions, the Company conducts periodic evaluations of patents under maintenance to retain high-value patents and discontinue low-value ones, thereby reducing unnecessary maintenance costs. The Company also considers patent transfers or sales, as well as the acquisition of high-quality patents or cross-licensing arrangements, to strengthen its patent portfolio and raise technological barriers to entry for competitors. Evaluation criteria include the technologies disclosed in the patents, current utilization, and future application or licensing potential. To ensure thorough assessment, patents proposed for abandonment by individual departments undergo a secondary review by the Intellectual Property Group and senior management, taking into account the Company's overall strategic needs.

To encourage innovation and continuously motivate employee intellectual property contributions, the Company plans to formulate a patent proposal incentive program. Employees are encouraged to submit patent proposals arising from research, development, or operational innovations. ## VI. Risks and Assessments During the Most Recent Fiscal Year and as They Stood on the Date of Publication of the Annual Report:

- (I) The effect upon the company's profits (losses) of interest and exchange rate fluctuations and changes in the inflation rate, and response measures to be taken in the future.
1. The effect upon the company's profits (losses) of interest rate and response measures to be taken in the future: The Group's finance costs for 2025 and the first quarter of 2026 were NT$12,004 thousand and NT$9,525 thousand respectively. The financing from financial institutions as a proportion of consolidated total assets was 17.11% and 27.84% at the end of 2025 and the first quarter of 2026 respectively, which has limited impact on the Company and the Group.
  2. The Group's export sales accounted for 95.58% and 93.02% in 2025 and the first quarter of 2026, respectively. The Company is exposed to exchange rate fluctuations between the U.S. dollar, RMB, Japanese yen, euro, and Thai baht and the New Taiwan dollar for purchases or sales denominated in non-functional currencies. However, as the exchange rate risks arising from purchases and sales offset each other to a certain extent, and the Group's net receipts are mainly in U.S. dollars, Japanese yen, and euros, the Company will conduct foreign exchange transactions in a timely manner in order to reduce exchange losses.
  3. Impact of inflation in the most recent year on the Company's profit or loss and future measures in response: The Group's sales to countries or regions with high inflation are denominated in US dollars and therefore inflation is not expected to have a substantial impact on profit or loss in the near term.
  4. The Group's exposure to interest rates and inflation is limited and the future measures to address changes in exchange rates are described below:
    - (1) The Finance Department maintains close contact with the foreign exchange departments of financial institutions to collect information on movements in foreign exchange rates and to keep track of domestic and foreign exchange movements and changes in order to reduce the adverse impact of exchange rate changes.
    - (2) Considering the possible impact of exchange rate changes when quoting to customers, the Company adopts a more conservative exchange rate as the basis for a quotation so that exchange rate fluctuations would have less impact on the profitability of the orders received.
    - (3) The Company maintains foreign currency positions in the foreign currency deposit accounts to meet the foreign currency funding requirements and adjust the foreign currency holdings in a timely manner to reduce the impact of exchange rate fluctuations.
    - (4) When the exchange rate fluctuates drastically, other instruments will be used in the future to hedge exchange rate risk, such as forward exchange transactions, to hedge the risk of changes in exchange rates.
    - (5) The Company has established "Procedures for the Acquisition or Disposal of Assets" to regulate the procedures for derivative trading and to strengthen the Company's risk control management.
- (II) The Company's policy regarding high-risk investments, highly leveraged investments, loans to other parties, endorsements, guarantees, and derivatives transactions; the main reasons for the profits/losses generated thereby; and response measures to be taken in the future.

1. The Group did not engage in transactions relating to high-risk and highly leveraged investments in 2025 and the first quarter of 2026.
2. The Group's policy for the loaning of funds or endorsement/guarantee is in accordance with the Company's "Operational Procedures for Lending Funds and Endorsement/Guarantee" for 2025 and the first quarter of 2026, which is regularly audited and announced in accordance with the regulations, and there should be no potential risk for the actions taken by the subsidiaries holding 100% equity investment.
